

HAPPENINGS IN AND ABOUT TOWN

WILL FIND WORK FOR GUARDSMEN

City to Welcome Members of Co. F on Their Return to South Bend.

Upon the return of Co. F, Indiana National guard, from the Mexican border, which probably will be within four or five weeks, the Chamber of Commerce will take steps to secure jobs for the members of the military organization who return to South Bend with no work awaiting them. The Third Indiana regiment, which includes Co. F, along with four other regiments, was ordered to get ready to return home Thursday afternoon.

Many of the members of the local company will be given their old jobs when they get back to the city, but it is expected that there will be some who will be out of the work. The Studebaker corporation, the Indiana and Michigan Electric Co., the Northern Indiana Gas and Electric Co. and several other firms announced that their men would be taken back upon their return and families of employees of many of these concerns now are receiving the regular wages of the heads of the families who are on the border.

The plan of the Chamber of Commerce is to get in touch with Capt. Clinton D. Rogers, the commanding officer of Co. F, in regard to the number of men who are not sure of their old positions. Members of the chamber will be asked to give permanent work to these men and the newspaper will be asked to cooperate in securing jobs for them.

Reception is planned. As soon as the exact date of the company's return to South Bend is known, the Chamber of Commerce will make arrangements for a reception for the soldiers. When it was reported two months ago that the men were coming home, the board of directors of the organization endorsed a movement to hold a public reception for the company.

The Chamber of Commerce will be in charge of all of the arrangements for the soldiers' home-coming. It is planned to have one or two bands meet the company at the railroad station and escort the men to the place where they will be housed. Business men will be asked to decorate their places and the residents living along the streets through which the soldiers will be marching will be asked to hang out American flags. Efforts will be made to have an many people as possible greet the members of the company as they march down the streets.

According to word from Indianapolis Friday, the Third regiment is not expected to arrive in the state for about three weeks. The troops will go to Fort Benjamin Harrison to be housed in the barracks at Fort Benjamin Harrison. It is expected that it will be two weeks after the men reach the Indiana mobilization camp before the equipment is inventoried and they are discharged.

First to Reach Border. Co. F and other members of the Third Indiana regiment were the first Indiana organizations to reach the border, arriving there on July 12. The company left here on Saturday morning, June 24, arriving at Fort Benjamin Harrison late that afternoon.

Capt. Rogers received his orders to get his troops together on Monday morning, June 19, having received notice that the national guard had been ordered out the night before through the newspapers. At the time the orders were received here Co. F hardly was up to peace strength of 65 men, but when the company left for the border it was one of the largest in the state. During the week that the local officers were given to recruit men, Co. F was made sufficiently large to be the biggest one at the Fort Harrison mobilization camp when it arrived there.

Capt. Clinton D. Rodgers, First Lieut. Otto Dietl and Second Lieut. Charles M. Powers are the commissioned officers of Co. F.

RARE BOOKS ARE BADLY DAMAGED

Water in Historical Society Rooms in Old Court House Discovered in Time.

A closed-up water pipe was the cause of the flooding of the rooms of the Northern Indiana Historical society and the employment bureau in the old courthouse Thursday evening. A piece of newspaper had become lodged in a pipe leading to the sink in the quarters of Auten Post G. A. R. on the third floor, and an open water faucet caused water to drip through the floor onto several glass cases in the historical society's rooms, containing a portion of the Indiana Centennial exhibit.

Several rare books were badly damaged but old papers and documents escaped a wetting. The mishap was discovered late Thursday evening by a member of the society, and tubs and buckets were brought to the rescue.

Frank J. Murphy, superintendent of the Indiana Free employment bureau which is located on the first floor of the old courthouse directly beneath the historical society rooms, succeeded in draining the water from his office. No damage was done.

In his statement when handing down the decision, Judge Hammer-schmidt was of the opinion that the defendant should have first used more moderate means to eject the man who was undesirable, before resorting to a club.

It was established that Nizicki had called Luczynski various odious names and that the defendant had, after inviting him to leave the meat market at the corner of Huron and Brookfield sts., where the affair occurred, had beaten him with a piece of dried meat. The court found Luczynski guilty.
